REVIEW REPORT ON INTERIM FINANCIAL INFORMATION

To: The Shareholders, the Board of Directors and the Board of Management
Vietnam Public Joint Stock Commercial Bank

We have reviewed the accompanying Interim Separate Financial Statements of Vietnam Public Joint Stock Commercial Bank prepared on 19 November 2026, as set out on pages 7 to 60 including: Interim separate statement of financial position as at 30 June 2026, Interim separate income statement, Interim separate cash flow statement for the six-month period then ended and Notes to the Interim Separate Financial Statements.

Board of Management's responsibility

The Bank's Board of Management is responsible for the preparation and presentation of these Interim Separate Financial Statements that give a true and fair view in accordance with the Vietnamese Accounting Standards, Accounting System for credit institutions in Vietnam and the statutory requirements relevant to preparation and presentation of the interim financial statements, and for such internal control that the Board of Management determines as necessary to enable the preparation and presentation of the Interim Separate Financial Statements to be free from material misstatement, whether due to frauds or errors.

Auditor's responsibility

Our responsibility is to express a conclusion on the Interim Separate Financial Statements based on our review. We conducted our review in accordance with Vietnamese Standards on Review Engagements No. 2410 - Review of interim financial information performed by the Independent Auditor of the Entity.

A review of interim financial information consists of making inquiries, primarily of people responsible for financial and accounting matters, and applying analytical and other review procedures. A review is substantially less in scope than an audit conducted in accordance with Vietnamese Standards on Auditing and consequently does not enable us to obtain assurance that we would become aware of all significant matters that might be identified in an audit. Accordingly, we do not express an audit opinion.

Auditor's Conclusion

Based on our review, nothing has come to our attention that causes us to believe that the accompanying Interim Separate Financial Statements do not give a true and fair view, in all material respects, of the separate financial position of Vietnam Public Joint Stock Commercial Bank as at 30 June 2026, and its separate operating results and its separate cash flows for the six-month period then ended, in accordance with Vietnamese Accounting Standards, the Accounting System applicable to credit institutions in Vietnam and the statutory requirements relevant to the preparation and presentation of interim financial statements.

Emphasis of matters

We would like to draw readers' attention to the facts that:

1. As disclosed in Note 3.3, as at the date of preparation of the interim separate financial statements, the Bank continues to implement measures to resolve loans included in the Restructuring Plan, including debt sales, disposal of collateral to recover debts, debt recovery, provision appropriations and reversal of accrued interest income. The implementation of these measures is subject to future uncertain conditions that may affect the recoverability and the realization of future economic benefits from the relevant items included in the Restructuring Plan.

2. The Bank is implementing debt recovery and resolution measures in respect of certain customers in accordance with a roadmap extending to 31 December 2026 (as detailed in Note 10 – Loans and Advances to Customers and Note 16.2 – Other Receivables, Remark No. 8 of the Interim Separate Financial Statements).

3. In addition to the loans included in the Restructuring Plan, the Bank also has certain loans and receivables that are subject to credit risk (details are presented in Note 10 – Loans and Advances to Customers and Note 16.2 – Receivables, footnote (8) of the Interim Separate Financial Statements). These items are subject to certain factors that may give rise to uncertainty regarding the recovery of the future economic benefits associated with the relevant assets of the Bank.

This Emphasis of Matter does not modify our unqualified conclusion stated above.

37 . Contingent liabilities and commitments

In the normal course of business, the Bank implements financial tools related to off-statement of financial position items. These financial instruments mainly comprise of financial guarantees and commercial letters of credit. These instruments involve elements of credit risk in excess of the amounts recognized in the on-statement of financial position.

Credit risk of financial instruments in addition to statement of financial positions is defined as the possibility of sustaining a loss in case any other party to a financial instrument fails to perform in accordance with the terms of the contract.

Financial guarantees are conditional commitments issued by the Bank to guarantee the performance of a customer to a third party including guarantee for borrowings, settlement, performing contracts and tender. The credit risk involved in issuing guarantees is essentiality the same as that involved in loans to customers.

Commercial at sight letters of credit represent a financing transaction by the Bank to its customers where the customer is usually the buyer/importer of goods and the beneficiary is typically the seller/exporter. Credit risk is limited as the merchandise shipped serves as collaterals for the transaction.

Deferred letters of credit represent the amounts at risk should the contract be fully drawn upon and the client defaults in repayment to the beneficiary. Deferred letters of credit that were default by clients are recognized by the Bank as compulsory loans with corresponding liabilities representing the financial obligations of the Bank to the beneficiaries and to fulfill the guarantor's obligations.

The credit risk involved in issuing letters of credit is generally insignificant provided that the Bank is able to take control of goods. Deferred letters of credit may pose higher risk exposure in comparison to letters of credit at sight. Letters of credit/guarantees that were default by clients are recognized by the Bank as compulsory loans as previously agreed by the Bank and clients.

The Bank usually requires customers to place margin deposits for credit related financial instruments. The value of deposits may vary from 0% to 100% of the value of commitments issued depending on the customers' trustworthiness as assessed by the Bank.

In addition, the Bank has other commitments to counterparties such as commitments to purchase valuable papers, irrevocable loan commitments.

Irrevocable loan commitments are those to grant credit to customers and the commitments are unconditionally irrevocable, according to the contracts signed.

41 . Risk management policies relating to financial instruments

The Bank's objective is to maintain a healthy financial position. Hence, the using of financial instruments, including customer deposits and investments in high quality financial assets, is critical for the Bank to achieve required interest margin. From risk management perspective, the Bank is required to maintain balance between off-statement of financial position items (such as guarantees and letters of credit) and credits (loans in VND and foreign currencies) to individuals and organizations which have different creditworthiness. In addition, the Bank also invested part of its mobilized funds in securities or loans to other credit institutions. The foreign currency risks and interest rate risks have been managed simultaneously by applying position limits in order to reduce risk concentration and participating in activities with opposite balancing impacts to minimize risks. Holding high quality financial instruments helps the Bank to manage significant risks in its operating activities and ensure its solvency.

For credit risk management purpose, the Bank has used their credit management manual providing regulations and requirements for lending and guidance to standardize the lending activities at the Bank. Liquidity risk is limited by keeping a large amount of cash and cash equivalents in form of Nostro account, term deposits at the State Bank of Vietnam and other credit institutions and valuable papers. Risk-adjusted prudent ratios are also used in liquidity risk management. The Bank often revalues the interest rate gap and compares to benchmarks of domestic and foreign markets on a regular basis in order to able to timely adapt with unforeseen movements.

41.1 . Credit risk

Credit risk is the risk that a customer fails or is unable to fulfil part or all of its debt repayment obligations in accordance with the contracts or agreements entered into with PVcomBank. To manage credit risk, the Bank has established a centralized management model at its Head Office for credit appraisal, re-appraisal, valuation, loan approval and debt management activities. In addition, the Bank has developed a system of general regulations on credit risk management based on the regulations of the State Bank of Vietnam and the Bank's internal risk management orientations, ensuring effective management of both the credit portfolio and credit operations in practice.

Currently, in addition to regularly reviewing and updating its internal models, policies and regulations to ensure their alignment with the Bank's credit operations, the Bank has developed software applications to support loan management, debt management and early warning of potential problem loans. The Bank will continue to upgrade and enhance its internal credit rating system in the coming period.

The Bank's financial assets that are neither past due nor impaired comprise Group 1 loans in accordance with Circular No. 31/2024/TT-NHNN; securities; receivables; and other financial assets that are neither past due nor subject to provision requirements under Circular No. 48/2019/TT-BTC dated 8 August 2019. The Bank considers that it is fully capable of recovering these financial assets in full and on time in the future.

41.2 . Market risk

a. Interest risk

Interest rate risk is the risk arising from adverse movements in market interest rates, which may affect the income and economic value of financial instruments as well as the Bank's operations.

The Executive Management periodically reviews the Bank's potential risks, taking into consideration the prevailing economic environment and actual business conditions. On this basis, the Executive Management reviews the structure of assets and funding sources, taking into account mismatches in funding and the risk of fluctuations in market interest rates, while ensuring compliance with established ratios, limits and regulations.

The Bank manages banking book interest rate risk by analysing the actual interest rate repricing periods of the Bank's assets and liabilities.

The actual interest rate repricing period is the remaining period from the end of the reporting period to the next interest rate repricing date of the relevant assets and funding sources.

The following assumptions and conditions are applied in analysing the actual interest rate repricing periods of the Bank's assets and liabilities:

- Cash, investment securities in the form of equity securities, capital contributions, long-term investments and other assets (including fixed assets and other assets, excluding entrusted investments and accrued interest receivable from credit activities) are classified as non-interest-bearing items.
- Deposits with the State Bank of Vietnam are classified as not subject to interest rate repricing risk.
- The interest rate repricing periods of trading securities and investment securities in the form of debt securities are determined based on their remaining contractual payment or maturity periods as at the reporting date, in the case of fixed-rate securities, or based on their contractual interest rate repricing periods, in the case of floating-rate securities.
- Non-term deposits from financial institutions and other credit institutions, and non-term deposits from the State Treasury, are classified in the "Under 1 month" time band.
- The actual interest rate repricing periods of deposits with and loans to other credit institutions; loans to customers; borrowings from the Government and the State Bank of Vietnam; deposits and borrowings from other credit institutions; customer deposits; loans to credit institutions bearing credit risk; and issued valuable papers are determined as follows:
  - Items bearing fixed interest rates throughout the contractual term: The actual interest rate repricing period is determined based on the actual remaining maturity from the end of the reporting period.
  - Items bearing floating interest rates: The actual interest rate repricing period is determined based on the period remaining until the next contractual interest rate repricing date from the end of the reporting period.

b. Currency risk

Foreign currency risk is the risk arising from fluctuations in foreign exchange rates, which may affect the value of the Bank's assets, liabilities and operating results.

The Bank is established and operates in Vietnam, with VND as its reporting currency and primary transaction currency. The Bank's operations give rise to assets, liabilities and transactions denominated in VND, USD and other foreign currencies. The Bank establishes foreign exchange position limits for each currency in accordance with the regulations of the State Bank of Vietnam and the Bank's internal risk management policies. The Bank's foreign exchange positions are monitored and supervised on a daily basis to promptly identify fluctuations and potential breaches of the established limits. The Bank applies appropriate risk management and mitigation measures to ensure that its foreign exchange positions remain within the approved limits.

Classification of assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies converted into VND as at 30 June 2026 is as follows:

c. Liquidity risk

Liquidity risk is the risk that the Bank is unable to meet its financial obligations as they fall due, or is able to meet such obligations only at a cost higher than the market average. To mitigate liquidity risk, the Bank seeks to diversify its funding sources beyond its core funding base. In addition, the Bank maintains flexible policies for managing liquid assets and monitors its future cash flows and liquidity position on a daily basis. The Bank also assesses projected cash flows and the availability of existing collateral that could be used to obtain additional funding, if necessary.

The maturity of assets and liabilities represents the remaining period from the end of the accounting period until their contractual payment dates or the payment dates specified in the terms of issuance.

The following assumptions and conditions are applied in analysing the maturity periods of the Bank's assets and liabilities:

- Deposits with the State Bank of Vietnam are classified as demand deposits and include compulsory reserve deposits. The balance of compulsory reserve deposits depends on the composition and maturity profile of the Bank's customer deposits.
- The maturity periods of trading securities and investment securities are determined based on the maturity dates of each type of security. This portfolio also includes Government bonds, Government-guaranteed bonds and municipal bonds, which are considered liquid assets that can be readily converted into cash within a short period of time with minimal risk of changes in value.
- Fixed assets and capital contributions for share acquisitions are classified in the "Over 5 years" maturity band, reflecting the nature of their use and/or their long-term holding characteristics.
- The maturity periods of deposits with and loans to other credit institutions, and loans to customers, are determined based on the contractual maturity dates. The actual maturity periods may differ as loan agreements may be extended or repaid before their contractual maturity dates. In addition, loans to customers are presented at their gross principal amounts, before deduction of credit risk provisions.
- Government and State Bank of Vietnam borrowings; deposits from and borrowings from other credit institutions; customer deposits; funds received from grants and entrusted investment and lending activities where the Bank bears the risks; and issued valuable papers are classified based on their nature or contractual maturity dates. Vostro accounts and payment deposits are classified as demand deposits, as transactions in these accounts are conducted at customers' requests. The maturity of term loans and term deposits is determined based on their contractual maturity dates. In practice, these loans and deposits may be rolled over and therefore remain outstanding for periods longer than their original contractual maturities.
- The maturity periods of other assets and liabilities are allocated to the respective maturity bands based on the nature of the underlying transactions and/or their expected settlement dates.
